

SAN FRANCISCO
PARKS TRUST

2008 ANNUAL REPORT

Founded in 1971, the mission of San Francisco Parks Trust (SFPT) is to provide leadership and support for San Francisco's parks, recreation centers, and open spaces. SFPT advocates for San Francisco's urban oases, empowers citizens to improve their neighborhood parks and recreation centers, promotes open space and land stewardship, and helps preserve and improve San Francisco's more than 200 parks by fundraising for capital improvements.

Karen Kidwell joined SFPT as Executive Director in May 2008.

IN 2007/2008

SFPT continued to strengthen its core support of community organizations through its Park Partners program, as well as increased its grassroots land stewardship efforts through Street Parks. SFPT added six new Park Partners and five new Street Park sites in 2007/2008, expanding its reach into under-served communities.

With the support of more than 3,500 members and donors, SFPT continued signature events such as Play Day in the Park and Opera in the Park, and contributed more than $50,000 to the Recreation and Parks Scholarship Fund to ensure equal access to recreation opportunities.

Advocacy for San Francisco Parks

In our ongoing advocacy of parks and recreation, SFPT was lead sponsor of Proposition A, the Parks Bond, which voters passed overwhelmingly in February 2008. SFPT contributed more than $100,000 to spearhead advocacy for the Parks Bond, manned phone banks and coordinated rallies at parks. In coming years, the Parks Bond will help renovate bathrooms and play structures, plant trees and restore trails, seismically retrofit facilities for added safety, and develop new waterfront parks, among other projects. SFPT has been asked to join a task force to help spend these funds wisely. The consistent support of our donors and members gives us the financial strength to capitalize on opportunities for key advocacy efforts for parks while we carry on our core programs.

SFPT was lead sponsor of the Parks Bond campaign and added more than 700 new members in 2007/2008.

Supporting Community

Our Park Partners Program provides operational and technical support to more than 50 grassroots community groups who work to improve their neighborhood parks and recreation centers. Other Partners focus on arts and cultural programming for adults and youth. In 2007/2008, SFPT served 58 Park Partners and community projects, and awarded more than $20,000 in seed funding through our Innovator Awards Program to:

SFPT's donors, members, and Park Partners raised more than $4 million for grassroots organizations in 2007/2008.

- Alemany Farm :: irrigation
- Friends of Boeddeker Park :: to transform an unused sand lot
- Buena Vista Elementary PTA :: picnic tables in Potrero del Sol Park
- Community Partners United :: a sound system
- MacCanDo Tenderloin Youth Track Club :: starting blocks
- Friends of Noe Valley Rec. Center :: audio/visual equipment
- Planktown Neighborhood :: sidewalk greening at 9th and Mission Plant*SF :: 23rd Street Greenway sidewalk garden
- S.F. Nature Education :: binoculars for youth bird watching
- Visitation Valley Greenway Project :: pergola
- Wheeler/Hester Neighbors/Visitation Valley Planning Alliance :: hoses, mulch, sprinklers and plants
- Youth Tennis Advantage, Ella Hill Hutch :: sports equipment

SFPT's additional award program, Music in Parks, helped Nature in the City, Precita Valley Neighbors, Bernal Heights Outdoor Cinema, and Sunnyside Park Families and Neighbors to bring music to their community celebrations. Music in Parks underscores SFPT's long partnership with San Francisco Opera that once again delivered the beloved Opera in the Park to Golden Gate Park. Another signature SFPT event in Golden Gate Park, Play Day in the Park, brought more than 1,500 children from across San Francisco to Sharon Meadow for a day of games, crafts, and other fun activities.

Land Stewardship to Empower Community and Youth

The Street Parks Program engages neighborhood groups including youth in the transformation of neglected city spaces into vibrant, well-tended community parks and gardens. In partnership with the Department of Public Works, SFPT added five new sites in 2007/2008, for 22 total, and began an inventory of the City's urban gardens and street parks. Beautifying small corners of a neighborhood has had big impacts, turning strangers into neighbors and bringing communities together. In conjunction with land stewardship efforts through Street Parks, SFPT launched the first annual "Breaking Ground" Youth Gardening Conference in Fall 2007. More than 50 high school students attended to learn about green choices such as victory gardens, food from small spaces, worm composting, and slow food. Breaking Ground is the only youth-led, peer-to-peer conference of its kind in the Bay Area. SFPT also hosted volunteer events around the City for youth and adults on Earth Day, Arbor Day, and Park[ing] Day.

"So many people in the community are so happy about the garden and more people are coming up to me wanting to do something. It's awesome! I watch people walk by and stop dead in their tracks looking in amazement at the garden. One neighbor told me that he wouldn't walk his children in that area before . . . but now, it's beautiful."

- Virginia Jourdan, after a Street Parks gardening day at Tara Street Garden in Oceanview/Merced/Ingleside.

Preserving and Improving Parks

SFPT has raised millions of dollars to protect more than 5,000 acres of parkland and served as the primary fundraiser for many of the City's park renovation projects, including the $8 million restoration of the West End of Golden Gate Park and the $25 million campaign to restore the Conservatory of Flowers. On the heels of SFPT's collaboration with Recreation & Parks and the Koret Foundation on the renovation of the Koret Children's Quarter playground in summer 2007, SFPT began planning stages for the campaign to restore another park gem—the Equestrian Center at Golden Gate Park Stables. Closed since 2001, the historic stables is one of the last remaining public urban stables in the world. SFPT also concluded the installation of more than 170 new park benches in the Music Concourse in 2007/2008 as part of our Commemorative Bench Program.
